Huge Revenue

The phenomenal increase along all lines of governmental and business activities in Virginia during the past twenty years is tersely indicated in a brief statement made public by State Treasurer John M. Purcell in which W. Sydney Pilcher, state publicity chief. It sets forth the following facts:

"Total receipts of the state during 1905 were $4,579,204.54.

"Total receipts for the state for 1925 (approximately) $32,000,000.00.

"In 1905 state treasurer held securities of insurance companies for the protection of policy holders in the sum of $4,384,620.00. In 1925 this item has increased to a total of $9,922,300.00.

"For the protection of state monies the treasurer holds surety bonds. United States Liberty bonds, and similar securities in the sum of $12,431,000.00.

"The sinking fund has retired on the state debt bonds amounting to $5,447,100.00 of which the treasurer is custodian."

Is it not time for the tax-payers to hear and study the platforms of the candidates for Governor and decide which of the two candidates stand for reforms in administing our State affairs. An increase of more than $27,000,000 in twenty years is too much burden for the benefits we enjoy. Think and then act.

Your compositor, or proof reader made us say in the Vera column last week that the entertainment to be "pulled off" at Wildway would begin at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, when it should have said "in the evening beginning at 8:30 o'clock." Come out and enjoy it with us. No admission charges.

The vacationists are beginning to flock to the country. Quite a number here are here and more coming.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Childers had as guests last week Mr. and Mrs. LeFew, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Ferguson and little daughter Claudine and Dr. Potts, all of Lynchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar LeFew, of Lynchburg, who spent their vacation with relatives in this section returned home Sunday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Childers, who spent the day with friends there.

Mr. Richard Hatcher, and family, of West Virginia are guests of their brothers, Messrs Leighton and Lawrence Hatcher.

Mr. A. Nuttycombe and son "Al" motored to Charlottesville Saturday and went to Washington Sunday to see the ball game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Miss Nellie Nuttlcombe has been visiting relatives and friends at Gladstone the past week.

Mrs. Walker Carnefix, who has been in a Lynchburg hospital, has returned home, not much improved in health.

The poem entitled "Boys" in your last week's issue was good. and is worthy of reproduction in other papers. It should be passed along.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Carter, of Lynchburg, spent their vacation with Mr. Carter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Carter here.

Mrs. Luther Webber, nee Miss Riley Lewis Spradlin, and Henry Spradlin, formerly of this place, but now living in Lynchburg are visiting relatives, and old friends here.

We regret to note that Mrs. Bryant Ferguson, who fell and broke her hip some time ago, is not improving as her friends would wish.

"Jews invest heavily in Palestine lands". This is the headline in a local newspaper—and then it goes on to say that the "Jewish National Fund," and th "Palestine Foundation Fund" are financal agencies of the "world" Zionist Organization—and have a fund of $8,000,000. $5,194,440 was spent in the purchase of agricultural and urban land and $774,150 in land improvements, including the drying up of swamps, road building, water supply installations and building loans to new settlers, all of which is conclusive proof that the Lord is now setting up his kingdom on earth and preparing for his righteous reign. The conflict between the "Beast and the Lamb" is on and will end in triumph for the Lamb. Jeremiah 25:31-36, Rev. 17:14. Zephe-niah 2:23.

There are thirteen Farm Loan Associations in Virginia which have loans exceeding half a million dollars, and yet Appomattox has not quite reached the $200,000 mark. If you are a borrower at a higher rate than 5½ % better talk it over with A. H. Kentucky Lady Got Well After Taking Cardui.

"I got down in health—suffering from womanly troubles which caused me much pain and worry," says Mrs. Rhoda Canary, of R. F. D. 6, Owenstoro, Ky.

"My stepmother had taken Cardui when she was in my same condition, so I got it for her. I found around among my friends about it and found several women who were taking it at that time.

"They all told me how good it was, so I told my husband to get me a bottle to try. That night he came home with a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I had a . . . which left me in a very serious condition. I had been in bed eight weeks and was unable to move in bed without help.

"By the time I had taken half a bottle (of Cardui), my strength began to come back. I could sit up in bed.

"I finished up that bottle and by that time I was able to walk across the floor. I continued taking Cardui for several months and I got well."

Edward McGinnis

This popular gentlemen died on his farm at Rose Bower Tuesday, about noon in the 48th year of his age. He came to this county about 17 years ago from Chetek, Wis., and bought the Woodson farm near Rose Bower on which he died. He is survived by one son and several brothers and sisters. He held public office in his native state and had so conducted himself while here that he had a host of friends.

In the morning he mowed hay around the grave yard in which his remains were interred on the Thos. Harvey place Tuesday. He drove a car over to his farm and started to walk to the field where he had hands at work, when found he had fallen face downward and died without a struggle. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for a long time.

His funeral was conducted at the home of Thos. Harvey by Rev. Thompson of Liberty church; a large crowd was present and flowers covered his grave. Although no relatives were present much sorrow among his friends was evident. He was a good citizen and will be missed in his community.

W. J. McDearmon

William James McDearmon whose death occured Monday, June 29th, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. M. Thornton, here, was the son of Samuel Daniel and Mary Walton McDearmon, all natives of Appomattox. Deceased was in 82nd year of his age. He was a confederate veteran, although quite young, he was a member of Company A—2nd Va. Cavalry. He married Miss Mary Frances Stickley daughter of Rev. William Stickley in 1868, she preceded him to the grave many years ago. He was a devoted father and held in high esteem by the community.

Interment was in Liberty cemetery Tuesday afternoon, June 30th. The simple burial service being conducted by Rev. R. E. Redding of Presbyterian church, assisted by Revs. Trent and Thompson of Methodist and Baptist churches.

He is survived by the following children: M. L. McDearm S. McDearmon and Mrs. S.M. Thornton Appomattox,

The floral offerings were many and beautiful being carried by grandsons.

One of the land marks of Appomattox rests from his labors.

Upton—Poe

Miss Frances Upton, of Appomattox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Upton, was united in marriage to Mr. C. D. Poe, also of Appomattox, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Poe, on June 27, 1925 at the parsonage by Rev, Mr. Trent. They toured to Roanoke, where they will visit the groom's sister, Mrs H. B. Fitzgerald, where they will spend a few days; on their return they will be located at the groom's home until the fall.

Birthday Party

Miss Alethea Doss entertained quite a number of her friends at an attractive birthday party Thursday evening June 25th at her home on South Church St. The rooms were beautifully decorated in pots of daisies. The color scheme being yellow and white was carried out in beautiful effect in the dining room which was decorated in yellow and white paper, ribbons and daises, where a delightful supper was served. Music was furnished by a string band and the evening was much enjoyed by dancing and playing games.

Fresh cut flowers, funeral designs and wedding boquets at all times at reasonable prices. Send in your order.

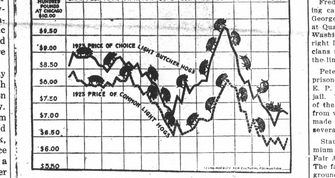
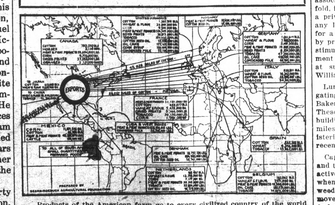
IT PAYS TO MARKET HOGS OF QUALITY



There is less price variation due to quality in hogs than in any other animal in the live stock kingdom. Yet, quality speaks, even at the hog market, with top prices going to the smooth, plump porkers. According to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, during the past year wheat futures in the lightweight class on the Chicago market, averaging from 150 to 200 pounds brought 37 cents to $1.50 per hundred over common hogs of the same class. At the beginning of the year choice light-weights were selling 37 cents a hundred over the commons. Through February highest prices for lights were 51 cents over the low price. During March, April, May and June the spread narrowed only to widen again through July and August. In October top prices in the lightweight class were hovering around $10.00 while low quotations were two dollars less per hundred.

Butcher and bacon hogs are graded as choice, good and medium in the heavyweights, and choice, good, medium and common in other weights. Formerly there existed a grade known as prime, which possessed the maximum of condition, form and quality. At present it is extremely difficult to get this grade in the desired market weights. Choice hogs have the conformation and quality that are desired in prime hogs, but are not quite so well finished. Good pure bred sires are relatively cheap now and their use would insure higher quality litters next spring.

Where U. S. Farm Products Go



Products of the American farm go to every civilized country of the world. Out of the United States each year is sent approximately one-half of the total cotton crop, one-fourth of the yield of the wheat fields, one-fifth of the porkers and huge quantities of corn and tobacco, dried fruits and other products of field and feed lot.

The accompanying chart, prepared by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, shows where the principal exports go.

In the United Kingdom more of America's farm exports are consumed than in any other nation. The United Kingdom uses more American cotton than any other country, her annual consumption averaging around 1,580,916 bales. Germany is in the market for almost as much cotton, using 1,011,614 pounds last year. The United Kingdom is the first market for American wheat and flour, tobacco, corn syrup and condensed milk. She also takes large quantities of dried fruits, oil cake, meat, meat products and corn.

THE OLD SOUTH YIELDS TO THE NEW WOMAN

A North Carolina newspaper recently ran a picture that my society editor would crave. The well-arranged hair, the shapely throat, the charming profile were accompanied by mention of a "member of an old and prominent family of Cartaret county." It was a story of an island of femininity entirely surrounded by men. But the men had sat about a directors' table, and welcomed Bertha Hellen as the newest officer of the Raleigh Banking and Trust company, the first woman assistant cashier in Raleigh.

Southern Main Street men please take to heart her words to other business girls.

"No one of you can appreciate my position unless you have been a girl in the South, where the woman is still having a struggle to gain her position in the business world. My home town cashier told me he had no question as to my ability. I could never be an officer in the bank merely because I was a woman. From that day I worked to become an officer in a larger bank than his."

Young Bertha Hellen, after she had got her foot on the ladder of success, had to face the one hardest type of opposition. "I worked for eight years in the little bank in my home town," she says. "I never had more than ten days' time off during a year. Sometimes I worked two years without vacation. I took as much interest in that bank as if I had a big salary, or the presidency. In the ninth year I asked to be made assistant cashier.

"I don't think a woman can hold that kind of position," the cashier told me. That ended the matter—for him —but not for me.

"The next year I was paying teller in a large bank in Wilson, at double salary. Seven months later I promoted myself to a Raleigh bank."

Save for the petty vision of that first cashier and others like him, Bertha Hellen finds many big things on Main Street. "The average woman's girl's character grows better, I feel, when she can have the influence of home life. She has a chance to know people better. My experience is that she can have more social life along with her work than the strange girl in a strange city."

"If one aspires to big things, it looks sometimes as if it is necessary to leave the small town. But we ourselves may be bigger in a small town. Even if we do not have a big-paying position, our lives may count for more in the little home church and community."
